Poems and quotes to celebrate

April is National Poetry Month and The PSU Collegian wasn't going to let the month end without sharing some poems and quotes. For more poems and an alphabetical list of the most well-known poets and quotes by them, check out the two sites linked to the QR codes.

"An eye for an eye, and the whole world would be blind." - Kahilil Gibran

Fire and Ice

Some say the world will end in fire,
Some say in ice.

From what I've tasted of desire
I hold with those who favor fire.

But if it had to perish twice,
I think I know enough of hate

To say that for destruction ice
Is also great and would suffice.

—Robert Frost

Dreams

Hold fast to dreams
For if dreams die
Life is a broken-winged bird
That cannot fly.

Hold fast to dreams
For when dreams go
Life is a barren field
Frozen with snow.

—Langston Hughes

"I hope that people will finally come to realize that there is only one 'race' - the human race - and that we are all members of it."

-- Margaret Atwood

Let Me Die A Young Man's Death

Let me die a young man's death
not a clean and inbetween
the sheets holywater death
not a famous-last-words
peaceful out of breath death

When I'm 73 and in constant good tumour may I be mown down at dawn by a bright red sports car
on my way home from an allnight
party

Or when I'm 91 with silver hair
and sitting in a barber's chair
may rival gangsters with hamfisted tommyguns burst in and give me a short back and insides

Or when I'm 104 and banned from the Cavern may my mistress catching me in bed with her daughter and fearing for her son cut me up into little pieces and throw away every piece but one

Let me die a youngman's death
not a free from sin tiptoe in candle wax and waning death
not a curtains drawn by angels borne 'what a nice way to go'
death

—Roger McGough

"If you have only one smile in you, give it to the people you love. Don't be surly at home, then go out in the street and start grinning 'Good morning' at total strangers."

ARTS Workshop in the Education Office for migrant students Taller de ARTE en la Oficina de Educación de Migrantes

Professors and students from Penn State Hazleton provided an enrichment program to students from the Hazleton Middle School on April 6. The students were introduced to: The Amazing Newborn: Stages of Development; Breaking the Ice: Communication Techniques ; Looking for Metaphors in Pablo Neruda's Elemental Odes.

Jane Roda, instructor in Human Development/ Family Services, gave a presentation on the Amazing Newborn.

"My presentation was called The Amazing Infant and I talked about Human Development during the first year of life," she said.

"I wanted to make the students aware of how much an infant is capable of seeing, feeling and learning, even though it might not seem like they do much.

"At a quick glance, it often appears that an infant is only capable of eating and sleeping but a closer look reveals that they have an impressive array of skills and abilities.

"I wanted to share these fascinating abilities with the students so they can be as impressed as I am at what researchers have discovered about the newborn infant."

Myrene Magabo, instructor in Communications, explained to the students how to break the ice by using various strategies and added that "the workshop started with an ice breaker activity for student participants, followed by a presentation in basic terms and simplified explanations of the following main points:

- 1) The historical, metaphorical, and modern day meanings of "breaking the ice"
- 2) A video illustration of the titanic-- symbolically representing the self, inner core values and potentials, and the iceberg to represent external obstacles in life.

3) A video slide show of some important core values

4) Inspirational video featuring Will Smith's Mindset Wisdom.

Penn State student, Eduin Lorenzo Medina assisted during the presentation, providing interpretations and some guidance to participants during the workshop activities.

Ms. Sandra Lopez-Medina and Ms. Lorie Cudwadie of the Central Susquehanna Intermediate Unit (CSIU) also worked closely with the kids and participated in the "icebreaker" discussion.

Beatriz García Glick, Instructor in Spanish, and PSU students developed the topic of metaphors by analyzing poems in Elemental Odes by the Chilean poet, Pablo Neruda.

Dominican Poet, Eddy Ulerio, who was also present at the ARTS Workshop, used several examples of metaphors from his book of poems "Travesía".

This collaboration was possible through the efforts of Sandra Medina-López, Director of the Office of Education for Migrant Students, and Lorie Cudwadie, Assistant to the Director.

Mis compañeros Belkys, Evelyn, Dillon, Heath, y yo estamos en la oficina hispana, este sábado y son las once de la mañana. Yo estoy hablando con los niños y ayudándoles a crear poemas. A mí me gusta ayudar personas por la satisfacción que me da. Me siento bien porque me doy en cuenta que estoy haciendo algo por mi comunidad. La otra razón es que me gusta conocer a gente diferente.

GENDER and COMPUTERS

Top nine reasons computers must be male:

1. They have a lot of data but are still clueless.
2. A better model is always just around the corner.
3. They look nice and shiny until you bring them home.
4. It is always necessary to have a backup.
5. They'll do whatever you say if you push the right buttons.
6. The best part of having either one is the games you can play.
7. The lights are on but nobody's home.
8. Big power surges knock them out for the night.
9. Size does matter

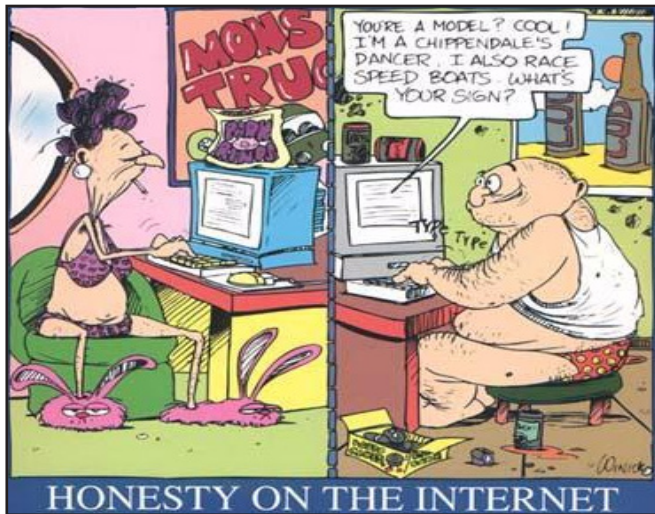

Top nine reasons computers must be female:

1. Picky, picky, picky.
2. They hear what you say, but not what you mean.
3. Beauty is only shell deep.
4. When you ask what's wrong, they say "nothing."
5. Can produce incorrect results with alarming speed.
6. Always turning simple statements into big productions.
7. Small talk is important.
8. You do the same thing for years, and suddenly it's wrong.
9. They make you take the garbage out.
